

Social Understanding, Enaction, and Interaction

A Day with Hanne De Jaegher and Ezequiel Di Paolo

September 23, 2013

The Academic Conference Center: Husova 4, Prague

The Academy of Sciences of the Czech Republic / Institute of Philosophy
Department of Contemporary Continental Philosophy

9.30 – 10.45

Ezequiel Di Paolo (San Sebastian)
Enactivism: Making the Body Explicit

10.45 – 11.15

Coffee break

11.15 – 12.30

Hanne De Jaegher (San Sebastian)
Participatory Sense-making, and Some of Its Implications for Understanding Autism

12.30 – 14.00

Lunch break

14.00 – 15.00

Martin Dornberg (Freiburg)
Intersubjectivity: Extended Bodies and Their "rapport sexuel"

15.00 – 15.30

Alice Koubová (Prague)
Enaction and Artistic Research

15.30 – 16.00

Coffee break

16.00 – 16.30

Martin Nitsche (Prague/ Ústí n.L.)
Ontological Consequences of Participatory Sense-making in the Context of Phenomenological Topology

16:30 – 17.00

Petr Urban (Prague)
Participatory Sense-making and the Ethics of Care

The workshop is organized by the Czech Science Foundation research grant project "Empathy – Between Phenomenology and Neurosciences" (GPP401/12/P544), and in the framework of the activities of the Central-European Institute of Philosophy in Prague: www.sif-praha.cz

Contact:
Petr Urban
petr_u@yahoo.com