

International Workshop

RHETORIC AND GENRES OF LEARNED COMMUNICATION
IN EARLY MODERN CENTRAL EUROPE
FROM HUMANIST
CORRESPONDENCE TO SCHOLARLY JOURNAL

19–20 October 2017

VENUE

Akademické
konferenční
centrum

Husova 3a, Praha 1

www.komeniologie.flu.cas.cz

The Czech Academy of Sciences

Filosofický ústav AV ČR
Institute of Philosophy

ORGANISERS

Vladimír Urbánek

urbanek@flu.cas.cz

Lucie Storchová

storchova@flu.cas.cz

Department of Comenius Studies
and Early Modern Intellectual History

Akademie věd
České republiky

Strategie AV21

Špičkový výzkum ve veřejném zájmu

The workshop is funded from the programme
Strategy CAS21

PROGRAMME

14:00

Registration, refreshments

14:45

Vladimír Urbánek, Welcome speech

15:00 – 17:30

Gábor Almási, The familiar style: The letters of Johannes Sambucus (1531–1584)

Kristi Viiding, Rhetorical strategies in the correspondence of Johannes Caselius to Livonian humanist David Hilchen

Kaidi Kriisa, Friedrich Menius as a professor of history and antiquities at the early modern University of Dorpat: A man of multilingual communication

Discussion

18:00

Conference banquet

9:00 – 10:30

Marta Vaculínová, Learned correspondence between early modern oriental scholars: The case of Christoph Crinesius and Sebastian Tegnagel

Ondřej Podavka, The formal, scholarly and familiar styles in the correspondence between Bohuslav Balbín and Alois Hackenschmidt (1664–1667)

Discussion

Coffee break

10:45 – 12:30

Lucie Storchová, Comenius's rhetorical strategies in his correspondence from the 1630s

Marcela Slavíková, “Vir non vulgari eloquentia”: Joachim Hübner's elegance of expression

Discussion

12:30 – 13:30

Lunch

13:45 – 15:30

Iva Lelková, “Cur in vernaculam nostram scripserim quaesis?": Some remarks on practice of language usage in Athanasius Kircher's correspondence

Farkas Kiss, “Hungarus ut stupuit!” Scientific letter exchange, communication channels and natural theology around a miraculous fall of insects in 1672

Discussion

Coffee break

15:45 – 17:00

Pannel discussion

THURSDAY
19 OCTOBER
2017

FRIDAY
20 OCTOBER
2017